Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Monday 13 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Perhaps very wet in central parts Thursday.

Today:
Dry for many eastern and northern parts with some sunny spells. Western parts cloudier with some mostly light rain. Warm for some south and eastern areas.

Tonight:
Some clear spells in eastern parts but mainly cloudy. Rain at times in west and areas of heavier rain arriving in far south later, this possibly thundery.

Tuesday:
Areas of rain merging over south and central parts then moving northwards. Perhaps some very heavy rain here. Mostly light rain elsewhere. Becoming closer in south.

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Rain and drizzle erratically clear from eastern England on Wednesday. Generally fine conditions then prevailing until late Friday, when cloud, strengthening winds, and some heavy rain arrive across western areas.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.